Profile

Chris has worked as a Case Manager since October 2016. He is a Registered Social Worker who has extensive experience within a variety of specialities within the NHS, third sector organisations, private health, and social care. Prior to becoming a Case Manager, Chris worked as a Social Worker in a local authority Children and Families' service and within Substance Misuse and Mental Health Services. He also has experience as a Support Worker to adults who either have a brain injury or a learning disability.

Chris implements and coordinates complete rehabilitation programmes for adults and children who have sustained an acquired brain injury, Cerebral Palsy, spinal injury, or experienced traumatic physical injuries as a result of medical negligence or personal injury. His work is applicable to both pre and post-settlement medico-legal claims.

Chris has a wealth of knowledge and skills to enable him to work effectively with multi-disciplinary teams, complex family structures, and to develop care plans and co-ordinate complex packages of care. This includes liaison with, and referral to, other statutory services across health and social services.

Chris' role involves the assessment of a client's functional capabilities and needs before the implementation of rehabilitation. He then co-ordinates treatment provided by therapists and other services such as schools. He is also able to prepare reports, rehabilitation plans and undertake goal setting with clients.

Testimonial

"I was in a car accident resulting in a brain injury. Chris was the most contentious, empathetic, and easy to talk to case manager that I've had. He listened to me, giving me all the support I needed. He showed initiative in many ways; he kept communication between all parties involved at a flow, he would take action on issues as promptly as he could. I found his time keeping to be faultless, he was extremely reliable and very organised. Chris was a kind, sweet and compassionate case manager. He took the time to know me, there is no doubt he loved his job!" - Client
