Profile

Simon has extensive experience working with people in diverse settings, situations and managing complex caseloads. He focuses on maximising his clients potential and gives voice to what is important for them, bringing together groups of professionals and enabling them to work together effectively. He identifies where attention is needed and how best to achieve the ambitions of his client and the people that support them.

Since 1991 Simon has worked across a wide range of care and support settings before qualifying as a Social Worker in 2004. He began working as a case manager in 2017.

Simon specialises in working with clients with brain injuries and cognitive impairments. He is very experienced in assessing individuals and their families, supporting them to establish and sustain often complex care and support arrangements. He works alongside a range of professionals co-ordinating their input to the benefit of those he supports.

As a case manager Simon supports adults and children with Acquired Brain Injuries and works skilfully with both private and statutory health and social care professionals alike. He has an extensive network of reliable contacts. Securing statutory funding and provision for clients is also one of his reliable skills. Over the past 5 years, Simon has developed his experience of Special Educational Needs provision.

His past experience also includes being a Practice Educator of student Social Workers and newly qualified Social Workers. He led a Local Authority's Assessed and Supported Year in Employment programme.

Testimonial

"Simon was appointed as a case manager in a case that I was instructed to take over from other solicitors. The case was at an advanced stage and the client who had received almost no active rehabilitation in the preceding 4 years. Simon was proactive, responsive and professional and made a fundamental and incremental difference to the client's understanding of and perception of the rehab process. I have no doubt that the client's experience of working with Simon has given him an excellent foundation for future rehab plans and that he will be able to build on those plans from an informed position. I would not hesitate to recommend Simon as a case manager."
